and the wind is the organ*

THE NATURAL WORLD OF MUSTANG ISLAND. We often take trees, grass, critters, beach and surf for granted. But do they make a difference in your life? When you walk outside, does the air seem different, the sounds, smells - and you? If you were a leaf or cloud, what would your journey be? What if the world were a city with no natural world at all? Write a poem about it! How do you feel when you find a shell on the beach? What about the seasons and storms, changing by the year? Let your experience of Port Aransas guide and inspire your contest entry. Send us your original sonnet, haiku, free verse poem, or any other poetry style you prefer. No poem should exceed twenty lines. Winning poems will be published in a poetry anthology at a later date. Honorable mentions for various poetry styles or forms will also be presented.

2020 Poems may be submitted through participating school faculty or electronically at director@portaransasmuseum.org. For more information please contact the Port Aransas Museum at director@portaransasmuseum.org.
